

Attendance was limited to 105 people. Mark Pepper, Executive Director of the Wyoming Association of Rural Water Systems, is the only representative from Wyoming registered to attend. More information concerning this workshop will be posted on our web site as it becomes available.

US EPA 2007 Capacity Development Program Workshop

Tuesday, October 23, 2007 8:00 am - Thursday, October 25, 2007 5:00 pm Denver, CO 80202

The National Capacity Development Program is designed to focus available resources toward assisting public drinking water systems (PWS) in acquiring and maintaining the technical, managerial, and financial (TMF) capacity to meet these challenges. This workshop provides an opportunity to demonstrate how EPA's National Capacity Development Program continues to support the Office of Water's strategic goal to improve PWS performance by maintaining effective oversight of state capacity development programs and assisting small water systems with acquiring and maintaining TMF capacity.
